Adam Jensen - The Mystic

```
Tom: G
                                                                    And nothing ever will (Dbm)
   Fm
                                                                                  Fm
  Got a head full of spiders
                                                                     Try to stay sober
  And a heart that isn't here
                                                                                  D
  In a room full of liars
                                                                     Try to stay clean
  All my demons reapear
                                                                      G
                                                                     Wake me when it's over
Em
                                                                     Like a bad dream
  Broken cigarettes
                                                                      D
                                                                                 Em
 And bullet holes
                                                                     Mama doesn't call
                            Am
                                                                                  D
 One more to the chest and {\tt I'm} alone
                                                                     Sister never writes
Em
                           G
                                                                    G
  Nothing gets me any higher
                                                                     Bet ya they would laugh
                                                                     If I called to say goodbye
                     Am
  And nothing ever will
                                                                     D
                                                                                    Em
                                                                     No one's gonna worry
(Dbm)
                                                                                     D
    Try to stay sober
                                                                     Notice when I'm gone
                  D
                                                                     G
                                                                     They wouldn't know I'm missing
    Try to stay clean
                       C
    G
                                                                              Am
                                                                     Til' they pull me out the mystic
    Wake me when it's over
    Like a bad dream
    D
          Em
                                                                 Em Am
   Mama doesn't call
                                                                     Tell the preacher not to pray
                                                                     There's no angel's where I go
                 D
    Sister never writes
                                                                     Only pieces that I broke
    G
                                                                     And Scattered dream across the globe
    Bet ya they would laugh
                                                                         В
    If I called to say goodbye
                                                                     T'm home
                                                                                     Em
    D
                   Fm
                                                                        D
    No one's gonna worry
                                                                     Try to stay sober
                    D
                                                                                  D
    Notice when I'm gone
                                                                     Try to stay clean
                                                                      G
    G
    They wouldn't know I'm missing
                                                                     Wake me when it's over
             Am
                                                                     Like a bad dream
    Til' they pull me out the mystic
                                                                      D
                                                                                 Em
                                                                     Mama doesn't call
  Em
                                                                                   D
                                                                     Sister never writes
    I bet nobody can remember
    Whar color adds are one my face
                                                                     G
    I'm a freak I'm a pretender
                                                                     Bet ya they would laugh
    I never really had a place
                                                                     If I called to say goodbye
                                                                     D
                                                                                    Em
  Em
                                                                     No one's gonna worry
    Broken cigarettes and bullet holes
                                                                                      D
                                                                     Notice when I'm gone
                              Am
   One more to the chest and I'm alone
                                                                     G
  Fm
                                                                     They wouldn't know I'm missing
                         G
    Notihng gets me any higher
                                                                               Am
                                                                     Til' they pull me out the mystic
                      Am
Acordes
```

С

C

C

C

Fm

