

Alan Jackson - The Firefly Song

Tom: A

I used to run in a young man's boots
 With a young man's heart, a young man's roots
 But now I stand where a young man stood before

I don't run like I used to
 This old man don't run no more

You used to talk and I used to nod
 I don't listen, but I hear a lot
 Don't believe for a second that my key won't fit your door
 I don't want you like I used to
 This old man wants you more

Chorus
 Hey hidee ho
 I used to go where the devil wouldn't go

Where the river run still
 and the water don't flow
 Heaven couldn't stop me then

Hey hidee hi
 Good lord willing
 And the creek don't rise

And life goes by
 like the fireflies
 Where the devil sits with a grin

Instrumental (same as intro, but first part played only once)

I used to sing with a young man's voice
 A young man's heart and a young man's choice Hope my song is what you're longing for I don't sing like I used to Sometimes less is more

Hey hidee ho
 I used to go where the devil wouldn't go
 Where the river run still
 and the water don't flow
 Heaven couldn't stop me then
 Hey hidee hi
 Good lord willing
 And the creek don't rise
 And life goes by
 like the fireflies
 Where the devil sits with a grin

Well this crazy life is all we got Like a shoestring tied in a beggar's knot
 In the end that's what this story shows

I don't love you like I used to
 This old man loves you more

I don't love you like I used to
 This old man loves you more
