Intro: Dbm B E A
                                                              I know you love me, yes you really love me, sometimes it ain?t
       Dbm B E A
                                                              Dbm
                                                              Even if it?s true love?s kiss, some things you just can?t fix
Nothing in this house but a couch, just the two of us
                                                              Dbm
                                                              It?s not a fairy tale, it?s the two of us
Haven?t paid the bill, lights are out, it?s the two of us
When I?m a rock star will it still be the two of us?
                                                              You scream at me like ?you should be thankful?
        Dbm
And if I take it too far will it still be the two of us?
                                                              I?m yelling back like ?you?re so ungrateful?
                                                              Let?s talk it over, until its over
Nobody told me you could get lonely sleeping with the one you
                                                              I need the sun, it?s cold on your shoulder
                                                                Let?s get back to the two of us
I know you love me, yes you really love me, sometimes it ain?t Dbm
                                                                             В
                                                                Let?s get back to the two of us
Even if it?s true love?s kiss, some things you just can?t fix
                                                              Wake up in the morning it?s the two of us
                                       E A
                  В
It?s not a fairy tale, it?s the two of us
                                                              Wit? your body on my body are you losing touch
                                                                            Dbm
We were seventeen when we fell, just the two of us
                                                              Cause when we didn?t have a daughter, just the two of us
Nothing but a dream, not a thing but the two of us
                                                              And we thought that being rich was gonna ruin us
                                                                       Dbm B
                                                                                       Е
Just look at us now, up and down in this tour bus
                                                              I?m saying ?I?m through it all? again
Every thing we have, will it still be the two of us?
                                                               Til the end just the two of us
                                                                         В
                                                               Til the end just the two of us
