Alice In Chains - The Killer is Me

Tom: A

Alright. I really like the weird feel to this song. It's kind of.... you know.... weird.

Anyway, i've spent a pretty long time figuring out the little details in this song. But still, there some parts i'm not sure of.
Here's my version.

like for most AIC songs, guitars must be tuned 1/2 step down.

Main Riff.
A ????

After a couple of times, when the band comes in, the second guitar plays something like this...
A

Or something like this...
A

I'm not too sure about these parts. I think he improvises most of the time.
But it's close enough.

Chorus

Guitar 1:
E Gb

yeah i'll start over and then...

F

and get over it....

Guitar 2:
E Gb

yeah I start over

yeah

I start over and get over it...

Verse 2:
Same as the first.

Chorus 2:
Same as the first, except that guitar 2 starts like this:
E

Then play the main riff a couple of times and that's it !

LYRICS
Don't need a gun, pointed at me
Don't need to run, killer is me
Killer is me

So the sun, shines upon me
Havin fun, killer is me
Insane the mind, in the name of me
Can't find the time, to let things be
Insane the mind, in the name of me
Can't find the time, to let things be
Let things be

Oh yeah, can i start over ?
Oh yeah, can i start over ?
And get over it
So the sun, shines upon me
Having fun, killer is me
killer is me
Killer is me

Oh yeah, can i start over ?
Oh yeah, can i start over ?
And get over it

Let things be

OK, so this is how close i can get to the real thing...
If somebody has a better way of playing it, please post it.
Send me all corrections, i'll be glad to recieve them.
