

Alice In Chains - The Killer is Me

Tom: A yeah

Alright. I really like the weird feel to this song. It's kind of.... you know.... weird. I start over and get over it...

Anyway, i've spent a pretty long time figuring out the little details in this song. But still, there some parts i'm not sure of. Verse 2: Same as the first.

Here's my version. Chorus 2: Same as the first, except that guitar 2 starts like this: E like for most AIC songs, guitars must be tuned 1/2 step down.

Main Riff. A Then play the main riff a couple of times and that's it !

After a couple of times, when the band comes in, the second guitar plays something like this...

A Or something like this... A LYRICS
Don't need a gun, pointed at me
Don't need to run, killer is me
Killer is me

I'm not too sure about these parts. I think he improvises most of the time. So the sun, shines upon me
Havin fun, killer is me
Insane the mind, in the name of me
Can't find the time, to let things be
Insane the mind, in the name of me
Can't find the time, to let things be Let things be

Chorus Oh yeah, can i start over ?
Oh yeah, can i start over ?
And get over it
So the sun, shines upon me
Having fun, killer is me
killer is me
Killer is me

Guitar 1: E Gb
yeah i'll start over and then... F

and get over it....

Guitar 2: E Gb
yeah I start over
OK, so this is how close i can get to the real thing...
If somebody has a better way of playing it, please post it.
Send me all corrections, i'll be glad to recieve them.
