

Alter Bridge - Break Me Down

Tom: B

INTR: A E Db B

It's too late the time has come
I've kept this inside me way too long
Silence will leave me cold
Lost on a highway that never takes me home

I want to step a side I want to give it up before I lose it all
It's tearing me inside the way you break me down
There will come a time when I will come undone and you let me fall
I leave it all behind before you break me down

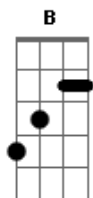

The weight of a thousand lies
A promise is broken on me all the time
You say that you're sure to change
But that black heart reveals that you always stay the same

I want to step a side I want to give it up before I lose it all
It's tearing me inside the way you break me down
There will come a time when I will come undone and you let me fall
I leave it all behind before you break me down

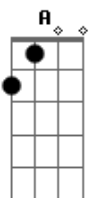

And I've realized forgiveness is calling
And it's calling
And I deny the reason I'm falling
Yeah I'm falling
So let go

I want to step a side I want to give it up before I lose it all
It's tearing me inside the way you break me down
There will come a time when I will come undone and you let me fall
I leave it all behind before you break me down
