

Amber Liu - Stay Calm

Though it ain?t clear stay strong
                            tom:
                                                                Just be true to who you are (who you are)
                                                                I'll keep running for my life? (hey!)
                                                                I'll keep running for my life yeah
 I'm gonna be who I should've been a long time ago
                                     Em G
 No doubt of mine is?gonna?keep what I?feel inside
                                                                I'll keep running for my life (hey!)
                                                                I'll keep running for my life yeah
I'm gonna find myself tonight
                                                                I'll keep running for my life (hey!)
I'm?gonna try to speak my mind
                                                                I'll keep running for my life yeah
I'm gonna taste freedom right
                                                                I'll keep running for my life (hey!)
          Em
I'm learning to feel again
                                                                I'll keep running for my life yeah
Stay calm
                                                                Heart beats to the rhythm
The destination's far
                                                                I will find my place learning to feel again
 Though it ain?t clear stay strong
                                                                  My faint heart rate to the rhythm
                  Fm
Just stay true to who you are (who you are)
                                                                I will find my place learning to feel again
                                                                   I'm learning to feel again
 Break from the shame
                                                                                Fm
Release my soul and let it fly away (fly away)
                                                                I'm learning to feel again
 Surrender all, for I have faith
                                                                I'm learning to feel again (feel again, again)
                                                                               Em
The Lord's prepared the way (the Lord's prepared the way)
                                                                I'm learning to feel again
                                                                ( C D Em B )
( C D Em D )
I'm gonna find myself tonight
               Em
I'm gonna try to speak my mind
                                                                Stay calm
I'm gonna taste freedom right (freedom right)
                Em
                                                                The destination's far
I'm gonna learn how to feel again
                                                                Though it ain?t clear stay strong
Stay calm
                                                                Just stay true to who you are
The destination's far
