

Amelia Watson - Gura Doesn't Know I Exist

tom:

Not long ago in my high school days
 I watched a girl from so far away
 But every time she passed me by
 I turned my head away and quietly sighed
 And when she walked by her hair would dance
 Secret tango that only I could understand
 And when she asked me for the time of day
 I look her in the eyes and quietly say

Oh, gura, gura
 Do you have any clue who I am?
 Listen up 'cause I'll tell you once
 And I'll explain myself the best that I can
 Woah, gura, gura
 You don't know me so I'll have to persist
 Kinda shy so no wonder why
 Gura doesn't know I exist

Past the class, I followed her
 Let her tour, leave her undisturbed
 And if she ever stopped and turned around
 Get so nervous I stare at the ground
 Then one day in photography
 Find a contact print that I cannot believe
 And there she was staring back at me
 So I took her up so quietly

Ahh

Oh, gura, gura
 Do you have any clue who I am?
 Listen up 'cause I'll tell you once
 And I'll explain myself the best that I can
 Woah, gura, gura
 You don't know me so I'll have to persist
 Kinda shy so no wonder why
 Gura doesn't know I exist

 Has benn a day that I come to hate
 As I walked into the video store
 There she stood as my jaw fell to the floor
 Tapping your toe, and waiting in line
 With a movie and ina by her side
 Why did I bother, why did I care?
 About this girl named

Gawr gura
 Gura, gura
 You'll never get to know hu I am
 This is goodbye, so please don't cry
 And I'll let you down softly as I can
 Oh, gura, gura
 Another name to cross off my list
 In another life it could've been nice but Gura doesn't know what she missed
