

Ana Nina - Stronger

```
I?ll make it somehow
                \mathsf{F} (forma dos acordes no tom de \mathsf{G} )
                Afinação: D G C F A D
                                                                 It doesn?t mean I?m over
I made a promise to the stars
                                                                 Because I?m gone
After today I?d never give up
                                                                 I?m stronger now
Everyone says that it?s okay
                                                                 I?ve always been a fighter
But I don't wanna talk about it
                                                                 I'm stronger now
It hurts to remember the time
                                                                 Makes me work a little harder
When you let me down
                                                                 I?ll make it somehow
                                                                 It doesn?t mean I?m over
Time, it takes time
                                                                 Because I?m gone
How much time
To feel better now?
                                                                 I?m a fighter
                                                                 I ain't gonna stop
I?m stronger now
                                                                 I?m stronger
I?ve always been a fighter
                                                                 I ain't gonna stop
I'm stronger now
Makes me work a little harder
                                                                 I?m stronger now
I?ll make it somehow
                                                                 I?ve always been a fighter
It doesn?t mean I?m over
                                                                 I'm stronger now
Because I?m gone
                                                                 Makes me work a little harder
                                                                 I?ll make it somehow
Remember my face
                                                                 It doesn?t mean I?m over
Cuz you will be seeing it someday
                                                                 Because I?m gone
And when you do you will realize
How much I?m worth, you?ll realize
                                                                 I?m stronger now
That I'm different from everyone else
                                                                 I?ve always been a fighter
From everyone else
                                                                 I'm stronger now
                                                                 Makes me work a little harder
Time, it takes time
                                                                 I?ll make it somehow
How much time
                                                                 It doesn?t mean I?m over
To feel better now?
                                                                 Because I?m gone
I?m stronger now
                                                                 [Solo] A Gbm D E
I?ve always been a fighter
                                                                 I made a promise to the stars
I'm stronger now
                                                                 After today I?d never give up
Makes me work a little harder
```

Acordes

