Ah..    Ah...

       G                   Em                 C
I've given all my love away and I've been left with none
Am                              D
But can you say that I'm to blame for loving anyone
G                   C7M       C           F
I used to think that I    was always older then my time
F            G       F                       G
We're all breaking promises, who will cry this time
C               G     F               G  F  G
We're all breaking promises, who will cry this time

       G                       Em                        C
I'm casting all my dreams hereto, my fish have gone to sea
Am                              D
And fate no longer has the faith to walk ahead of me
G               C7M       C                     F
I always used to think that I was better then my kind
F            G       F                       G
We're all breaking promises, who will cry this time
