Bee Gees - Mr, Natural

Burning embers.
                                                               He said he knew you well , and baby I could tell .
I still remember all of those little things.
                                                               You know he knew you more then me.
But I don't feel it so much 'cause I am so out of touch
                                                               I went home laughing and inside I'm crying with my heart
                and it won't sing.
                                                               We had a special thing .
Rusty rainbows.
                                                               You know I loved you so much , but girl I'm so out of touch
That's how the pain goes, turning me inside out
                                                                                   and it won't sing
Well, I come home at night and you are out of my sight.
                                                               You know my heart
                                                                                     just won't sing.
Yes. I'm dying and there ain't no doubt.

Well, I'm dying and there's no way out
                                                               Well I try try try try try
                                                               Mr. Natural (come on baby)
Well I try try try try try
                                                               When I walk in the rain you won't know that I'm crying.

                                                               A smile on my face and I'm trying.
When I walk in the rain you won't know that I'm crying.
A smile on my face and I'm trying.
                                                               I'm trying to understand that a love that is lost can never be found again.
                          that a love that is lost can never
                                                               And you can see me dance, I look like a happy man
I'm trying to understand
be found again.
                                                                                           Dm7
                                                               Still I try try try try try .
And you can see me dance, I look like a happy man
                                                               Mr. Natural (come on baby)
