

Belle And Sebastian - There Is An Everlasting Song

Tom: C

There is an everlasting song on my lips
 I got up early so I don't let that song slip
 And mighty is the voice I'm singing with
 It beats out all the dread
 Defeats the hours of darkness

There is an everlasting promise to be made
 My ink is wet, there is no paper could contain
 The depth of feeling that I pledge to you
 Solemn as the sea, solemn as the sea

There is an everlasting morning near the sun
 It burns a hole in my heart, makes me want to run
 And I would run all day if they give me the choice
 I hear your voice, I hear your voice
 I hear your voice

There is an everlasting gladness of the heart
 The stranger looks at me and loves me as I am
 One day I stand upon the river's scared shore
 And feel the sun, I'll feel the sun

There is an everlasting sadness all around
 It's bigger than the news, from this you cannot run
 A woman's magazine, a column in the mail
 Can't help you now, can't help you now

I love the summer birds, they sing no word of lie
 The air is cruel the frost will catch them as they fly
 But glorious the sun returns to wake the year
 They show no fear, they show no fear
 They show no fear
