

Bread - The Day Brings

Tom: C
                                                               And never, nevermind
                                                                                       The thing that people say
                                                               You'll never go away
                                                                                       You'll never go away
   (intro 2x) C C Am G
                              F Em F G
                                                               Who knows where the storm will take us
                                                               Who knows when the pain will break us
Hold up your end
                      And I'll hold up mine
                                                               When will all the G's be given
                                                               Another chance to live in freedom
              Em
Dancin' all the time Dancin' all the time
                                                               (solo over) Am Em F G
             C
                  \mathsf{Am}
And too late father
                      You know that that's for sure
                                                               So gather around
                Em
                                  G
You never find a way Never find a way
                                                               And see what the day brings
                                                                                               And see what makes you laugh
                                                               (riff 1)
                                                               And see what makes you sing
So gather around
                         And see what the day brings
                                                                                               And never, nevermind
And see what makes you laugh And see what makes you sing
                                                               (riff 1)
                        The thing that people say
                                                               The thing that people say
And never, nevermind
                                                                                               You'll never go away
You'll never go away
                        You'll never go away
                                                               (riff 1)
                                                               You'll never go away
                                                                                       So gather around
Who knows where the storm will take us
                                                               And see what the day brings
                                                                                               See what makes you laugh
                  G
                                                               And what makes you sing
Who knows when the pain will break us
                  Em
                                                               (solo)
When will all the G's be given
                                                               h = hammer on p = pull-off
Another chance to live in freedom
                                                               b = bend
                                                               s = slide
Hey now
Get your heart, get your heart Off of the shelf
                                                                    h
Make the grey sky blue Yeah, I'm talkin to you
And nevermind The sick and the afraid
Askin' out today to see a brighter day
                                                                   h
                                                                                   h
                                                                                               h
                                                                                                        S
                       And see what the day brings
```
