

Chelsea Cutler - Your Shirt

Tom: D

This time it don't feel like you want it all
 Did I do something wrong to make you go?
 Said I would know when it's all good to fall
 Now I just need you here to hold me close

Cause I don't want another heart to fill the holes
 That you left under my covers for me to grow cold
 I don't wanna miss somebody who's not missing me
 But the city feels so lonely when you leave

My room, where I want you
 Tangled ease in my sheets
 In your shirt that I got you
 Half asleep, holding on to me
 My bed where you left me
 Tangled up, now it's noon
 In your shirt that you gave me

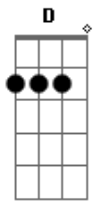

Half asleep, wishing I still had you
 Half asleep, wishing I still had you

This time you said you're playing games again
 What are we becoming of it now?
 It's fine, I said, if you're the one in my head
 Cause I just don't know how to put you out
 Cause I don't want another heart to fill the holes
 That you left under my covers for me to grow cold
 I don't wanna miss somebody who's not missing me
 But the city feels so lonely when you leave

My room, where I want you
 Tangled ease in my sheets
 In your shirt that I got you
 Half asleep, holding onto me
 My bed where you left me
 Tangled up, now it's noon
 In your shirt that you gave me
 Half asleep, wishing I still had you

Ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh
 Ooh ooh ooh ooh
 Ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh
 I'm half asleep, wishing I still had you
