

Chris Stapleton - Daddy Doesn't Pray Anymore

tom:

Intro: E B E E

Daddy doesn't pray anymore
 I guess he's finished talking to the Lord
 He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
 But daddy doesn't pray anymore

I remember even when the times were bad
 He thanked Jesus for everything he had
 For a good wife and three children
 And the food upon our plates
 Yeah, everything was right when he said, grace

Daddy doesn't pray anymore
 I guess he's finished talking to the Lord
 He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
 But daddy doesn't pray anymore

There was a time when we didn't get along Cause I thought I was right and he was wrong

Still when I laid down at night
 I'd hear him get down on his knees
 And say a little prayer for me

Daddy doesn't pray anymore
 I guess he's finished talking to the Lord
 He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
 But daddy doesn't pray anymore

Today I followed daddy down to church
 And listened to the preacher read God's word
 We sang his favorite hymn but daddy didn't make a sound
 This afternoon we'll lay him in the ground
 But daddy doesn't pray anymore

I guess he's finally walking with the Lord
 He used to fold his hands and bow his head down to the floor
 But daddy doesn't pray anymore
