

Dan Countryside - Before The Rain

```
( C F C F )
C
                                                                                                                                              tom:
                                                                                 {\sf Bb} (forma dos acordes no tom de {\sf C} )
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Sometimes I see the storm % \left( 1\right) =\left( 1\right) \left( 1\right)
                                                                                                                                     Afinação: D G C F A D
It's like a warning coming in
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   It seems like when in love
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    I let it begin
Sometimes I see the storm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   When a woman in my life
It's like a warning coming in
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Becomes the wife i can't complain \begin{picture}(60,0) \put(0,0){\line(0,0){100}} \put(0,0){\line
It seems like when in love
                     G
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   But her feelings leave me tingling
I let it begin
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    I can sustain
When a woman in my life
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  And if she asks me why
Becomes the wife i can't complain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   I will deny I can pretend
C F
This way I will stay
But her feelings leave me tingling
I can sustain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Until the end
And if she asks me why
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Her clouds get so loud
I will deny I can pretend
C F
This way I will stay
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    I have no doubt it's happening
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    The rain is coming and I'm running
Until the end
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    I recommend
Her clouds get so loud {\color{red}C}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Take a little, I get tired
I have no doubt it's happening {\color{red}C}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Don't call me vain
The rain is coming and I'm running
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Can't you see I'm on fire?
{\tt I} {\tt \ recommend}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Don't worry about the pain
Take a little, I get tired
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   The clouds are getting dark
Don't call me vain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   And no replies in me remain
Can't you see I'm on fire?
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    Before the rain
Don't worry about the pain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Take a little, I get tired
The clouds are getting dark
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Don't call me vain
And no replies in me remain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Can't you see I'm on fire?
Before the rain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Don't worry about the pain
Take a little, I get tired C
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    The clouds are getting dark
Don't call me vain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   And no replies in me remain
Can't you see I'm on fire?
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Before the rain
Don't worry about the pain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Take a little, i get tired
The clouds are getting dark
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Take a little, i get tired
And no replies in me remain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Take a little, i get tired F F C G C C7
Before the rain
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Take a little, i get tired
 ( C F C F )
```

Acordes

