

Tom: Eb
Intro: Cm

David Gilmour - Rattle That Lock

```
Become phantoms to our eyes
                                                               Furies and the revellers
Whatever it takes to break
                                                               Fallen angels in disguise
Gotta do it
From the burning lake or the eastern gate
You'll get through it
                                                               No discord, chance or rumour
                                                               Is going to interrupt this place
Rattle that lock and lose those chains
                                                               No discord, chance or rumour
Rattle that lock and lose those chains
                                                               Fm
                                                               To interrupt this...
Rattle that lock and lose those chains
Rattle that lock
                                                               So, let's get to it
                                                               It's calling like a flame
                                                               Through the darkness and the night
Let's go do it
                                                               The world suspended on a golden chain
Have it all our way
Go back to where we blew it
                                                               No discord, chance or rumour
And lose our heads along the way
                                                               Is going to interrupt this place
So long sin, au revoir chaos
                                                               No discord, chance or rumour
If there's a heaven, it can wait
                                                               To interrupt this...
So long sin, au revoir chaos
                                                               Guitar Solo: Cm Ab Fm Ab Fm G7
If there's a heaven...
                                                               Rattle that lock
Guitar solo base: Cm Ab Fm Ab Fm G7 Cm
                                                               Rattle that lock, lose those chains
                                                               Rattle that lock
                                                               Rattle that lock
Rattle that lock
                                                               Rattle that lock, lose those chains
Lose those chains
```

And all the other travellers

Acordes

