

Deepmoon - Good Night

Tom: E

m

When the sunlight is hiding
 It seems the time has faded away
 The stars and the moon shine
 Celebrating the death of the day

The ghost come out of graveyard.
 Dreams invade every head.

A legion of drunks march
 There's love on sale everywhere.

But anyway, good night
 For those who will smile or cry
 But anyway, good night
 The morning always wins the fight
 With its power of light.

Some become sad and tired
 Some become happy and insane
 Motors run like a lightning crushing lives without blame
 Refugees in their beds with eyes that cannot sleep

Lovers and their secrets use the dark to disappear

But anyway, good night
 For those who will smile or cry
 But anyway, good night
 The morning always wins the fight
 with its power of light.

The cold wind blows and haunts the streets
 Candles remind those who rest in peace
 And what will be after the shadows of the universe?

But anyway, good night
 For those who will smile or cry
 But anyway, good night
 The morning always wins the fight
 With its power of light

Good night!
 For those who will smile or cry
 But anyway, good night
 The morning always wins the fight
 With its power of light
