

Demi Lovato - Shouldn't Come Back

Tom: G
                                                              (PRE-CHORUS)
                                                                            C
                                                              Em D G
                                                              Sorry I'm not sorry for the times
See you calling again,
                                                                Em D G
                                                              I don't reply,
I don't want to pick up. no, oh.
                                                              you know the reason why.
I've been laying in bed
                                                              (CHORUS)
Probably thinking to much. oh, oh.
(PRE-CHORUS)
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back,
              C
Sorry I'm not sorry for the times
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
 Em D G
I don't reply,
                                                              Tired of being so sad,
    C
                                                              Tired of getting so mad baby.
you know the reason why.
                                                              Em D G C
(CHORUS)
                                                              Stop right now, you'll only let me down.
Maybe you shouldn't come back,
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back,
Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
Tired of being so sad,
                                                              Sorry I'm not sorry for the times
Tired of getting so mad baby.
                                                              (CHORUS)
Em D G
Stop right now, you'll only let me down.
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back,
Maybe you shouldn't come back,
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
                                                                              Em
                                                              Tired of being so sad,
Trying hard to forget,
                                                              Tired of getting so mad baby.
                                                              Stop right now, you'll only let me down.
Should be easier than this. oh, oh.
And all the birthdays you've missed
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back,
I was only a kid. oh, oh.
                                                              Maybe you shouldn't come back to me.
