

Descendentes (Disney) - Queen Of Mean

```
They're gonna bow to the evil queen
m (forma dos acordes no tom de Em )
                                                               Your nightmare is my dream
Capostraste na 3º casa
                                                                Just wait until they fall
           Em
                                C
I'm so tired of pretending
                                                                To my wicked schemes
Where's my happy ending?
                                                                                            D Am Em
                                                               I never thought of myself as mean
                                                                I always thought that I'd be the queen
I followed all the rules
                                                                And there's no in-between
I drew inside the lines
I never asked for anything
                                                                'Cause if I can't have that
That wasn't mine
                                                               Then I will be the leader of the dark
I waited patiently for my time
                                                               And the bad
But when it finally came
                                                                                     C
                                                               Now there's a devil on my shoulder
He called her name
                                                                                 D
                                                               Where the angels used to be
                          Fm
And now I feel this overwhelming pain
                                                               And he's calling me the queen of mean
I mean, it's in my veins
                                                                The queen of mean
I mean, it's in my brain
                                                                The queen of mean
My thoughts are running in a circle
        Em
                                                                Something's pulling me
Like a toy train
                                                                It's so magnetic
I'm kinda like a perfect picture
                                                               My body is moving
With a broken frame
                                                               Unsure where I'm headed
I know exactly who to blame
                                                               All of my senses have left me defenseless
I never thought of myself as mean
                                                               This darkness around me
I always thought that I'd be the queen
                                                                Is promising vengeance
And there's no in-between
                                                               The price that I'm willing to pay is expensive
'Cause if I can't have that
                                                                There's nothing to lose
Then I will be the leader of the dark
                                                               When you're lonely and friendless
And the bad
                                                                So my only interest
Now there's a devil on my shoulder
                                                               Is showing this princess
Where the angels used to be
                             Em C D Am
                                                               That I am the queen
And he's calling me the queen
                                                               And my reign will be endless
Being nice was my past time
                                                                I want what I deserve
But I've been hurt for the last time
                                                                           D
                                                                I want to rule the world
And I won't ever let another person take advantage of me
                                                                Sit back and watch them learn
The anger burns my skin, third-degree
                                                                           Am
                                                                It's finally my turn
Now my blood's boiling hotter than a fiery sea
                                                               If they want a villain for a queen
There's nobody getting close to me
                                                               I'm gonna be the one they've never seen
```

Oferecimento Lojalele.com.br

'Cause the devil's on my shoulder

Eb

Where the angels used to be

Cm Fm Db Eb Cm

And he's calling me the queen of mean

Fm Db Eb Cm

The queen of mean

Fm
I want what I deserve

Acordes

