Tuning: Full Step Down

there was a grown man dying from fright, so surprised at the things he'd seen, with a giant fantasy life, running round on feet of clay.

Naked except for a perpetual debt that couldn't be stripped away

An unrightable wrong that moved him along closer to division day

Spent a long time living with that, never could give it a name and when you don't know what you're it makes it much harder to take mostly they'd meet when he was asleep and, have some sick exchange that stuck him as wrong and moved him along closer to division day i can't make an exception for a bad connection that only goes one way

sell out for a song where i don't belong with you on division day the moon stood up on the ridge, looking down where the water shines, and a man looking over the bridge, like he done so many times.

Thinking about , how to stay out, out of troubles way

Flying to fall, away from you all, its over divison day

Beautiful Divison day.
