

Emil Bulls - Not Tonight Josephine

```
Tom: Db
                                                                       Ab
                                                                                Dbm Ab
                                                               Pandemonium is on warpath
  [Intro] Dbm E Dbm B
                                                                   Dhm
                                                               Not tonight Josephine
I slowly exsanguinate
                                                               My heart belongs to another
                                                                I know what I want and it's not you
Into an ocean of despair
      Dbm
                                                                Sleep tight Josephine
Like a decomposing carcass
    Ab
I'm floating towards nowhere
                                                                This is a goodbye
Below the sharks are waiting for a feeding frenzy
                                                                I gotta go I gotta leave it all
I'll trick 'em and escape
                                                                I'm gonna leave it all behind
       Ab
Like the great Houdini
                                                               Josephine what the hell happened to us
      Ab
Pandemonium is on warpath
                                                                Josephine there's an ocean between us
                                                               Josephine we're behind the eight ball
Not tonight Josephine
                                                               Josephine the writing is on the wall
My heart belongs to another
                                                                ( Dbm E Dbm B )
I know what I want and it's not you
                                                                   Dbm
                                                               Not tonight Josephine
Sleep tight Josephine
                                                               My heart belongs to another
This is a goodbye
                                                                I know what I want and it's not you
I gotta go I gotta leave it all
                                                                Sleep tight Josephine
I'm gonna leave it all behind
                                                                This is a goodbye
I'm crawling through the deserts
                                                                I gotta go I gotta leave it all
And the badlands of my world
                                                               I'm gonna leave it all behind
  Dbm
My patience and dedication drown
                                                                   Dbm
                                                               Not tonight Josephine
In the quicksand of my soul
                                                               My heart belongs to another
Above the vultures are waiting for my final heartbeat
                                                                I know what I want and it's not you
I'll trick 'em and escape
                                                                Sleep tight Josephine
'Cause i still belive
                                                               This is a goodbye
```

Acordes

