Eric Clapton - Marry You

```
Tom: G
  Marry You (ERIC CLAPTON)
Tom: F
                                                               Am7
m7
Intro: ======
                                                                I've got you on my mind
 Wah! ...
                                                               Fm7
                                                                You know you've got my time
                                                               Am7
                                                                Now and then, baby.
                                                               Em7
(Riffs Estrofe 1)
                                                                Hey, I want you to know,
                                                                   Em7
                                                                   I want to marry you.
Fm7
It's the sugar so sweet,
                                                                                   Am7
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
Am7
                  Bm7
Kind I'd like to meet
                                                                        Em7
Em7
                                                                   I want to marry you.
You at midnight
                                                                                   Am7
                Bm7
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
Am7
And tell no one else about it.
                                                                      Em7
                                                               I'm falling in love with you.
                                                                 Em7
                                                               You make all my dreams come true.
(Riffs Estrofe 2)
                                                                                          Α...
                                                                      Em7
                                                               I'm falling in love with you.
                                                               (I want to marry you.)
Am7
I'm going to make you mine
                                                               Solo 1:
Fm7
                                                               =====
 'cause I know we've got the time
Am7
Now and then, baby.
Fm7
Hey, I want you to know,
                                                                   Em7
    Em7
                                                                   I want to marry you.
   I want to marry you.
                                                                                   Am7
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
                                   Bm7
                   Am7
    Isn't that what you want, too?
                                                                       Em7
        Em7
                                                                   I want to marry you.
    I want to marry you.
                                                                                   Am7
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
                   Am7
                                   Bm7
    Isn't that what you want, too?
                                                                   Em7
                                                                   I want to marry you.
Fm7
                                                                                   Am7
 Come on in the back of the '57.
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
                                     Bm7
                                                                       Em7
Am7
Let me show you the way, the way to heaven.
                                                                   I want to marry you.
Em7
                                                                                    Am7
 You're looking so sweet, yes you are.
                                                                   Isn't that what you want, too?
Am7
                               Bm7
                                                               Solo 2: Pentatônica de "Em"
                                                               =====
Acordes
```

Oferecimento Lojalele.com.br

I'm sure that you've got some heat.

Bm7

Bm7

Bm7

Bm7

Bm7

Bm7