

Eric & Happie - It's Yours

```
Tom: Db
                                                            But I've got this feelin, you're what I've waited for (forma dos acordes no tom de D )
                                                                                Gm
                                                            You've got me fallin, girl I'm all in
                         Afinação: Eb Ab Db Gb Bb Eb
I just think you should know
    Bm
                                                            If there's any love left
I've been broken I've been alone
                                                                 Bm A
                                                            In these old bones of mine
          D
And I was thinking you should know
                                                                G A
                                                            It's yours
     Bm A
I've given some heart away before
                                                                 Bm
               Gb
                                                            It's yours
But I've got this feeling
                                                                      G
                                                                                Gb
                                                                                            Bm A
         Bm A
                                                            If there's any love left in these old bones of mine
You're the one I'm waiting for G A
                  Gm
                                                            It's yours
You've got me fallin, boy I'm all in
                                                                 D
                                                            It's yours
If there's any love left
Bm A G
                                                            And just so you know I'm not perfect I've got a long way to go
In these old bones of mine
                                                                                              Gb
                                                                                      D
    G A
                                                            (That makes two just so you know) cuz I'm tired of runnin,
                                                           your my
A G
It's yours
    Bm
It's yours
                                                            Coming home
                    Gb
If there's any love left in these old bones of mine
                                                                                           Bm
                                                            But I've got this feelin, you're what I've waited for It's yours
                                                                              Gm
                                                           You've got me fallin, girl I'm all in
     D
It's yours
                                                                     G
                                                            If there's any love left
                                                                  Bm
(D Gb Bm A G )
                                                                         Α
                                                            In these old bones of mine
Uhhh
                                                                G
                                Gb
                                                           It's yours
I was thinking we should take it slow, cuz we've got some It's yours
distance
                                                                                Gb
                                                                                            Bm
                                                            If there's any love left in these old bones of mine
We could go
                                 Gb
                                                                G
And I've been looking for a way to show this isn't what I've felt
                                                                 D
                                                            It's yours
 G
Before
```

Acordes

