

Evan Honer - Brother

Well I'll lock myself inside your head
 Try to understand what you felt
 When you were tied down to the table
 And your eyes filled up with anger
 And you couldn't speak
 On some meds I can't pronounce
 And all the evil you denounced
 But wouldn't leave

Well I can't walk a mile in your shoes
 But there ain't a goddamn thing I wouldn't do
 To take a portion of your pain
 And break off all the bounding chains so you can stand
 Taller than you ever have
 And feel the weight fall off your back and hands

Oh brother I don't see what you see and it kills me not to know

Oh brother I don't feel what you feel but it's eating at your bones

 Oh brother I don't see what you see and it kills me not to know
 Oh brother I don't feel what you feel but it's eating at your bones

Well it was 18 years till it showed up
 Held an arrow to your mind and throat
 And the people all around you
 The ones you gave your all to didn't understand
 But it's crazy that you kept the faith cause surely that would Bend or break any man
 [Refrão]

Oh brother I don't see what you see and it kills me not to know
 Oh brother I don't feel what you feel but it's eating at your bones
 Oh brother I don't see what you see and it kills me not to know
 Oh brother I don't feel what you feel but it's eating at your bones
