

Filanos - The One Who Takes You Home

```
Intro: A7M Dbm B
                                                                                                                                                                              And what is ahead is there for us to trace
                             A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                                               A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Dbm
I just woke up from another dream
                                                                                                                                                                              I've got to be the one who takes you home
                                                                                                                                                                                                             A7M
                                  Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Dbm
Where everything seemed so unclean
                                                                                                                                                                              We've got to see the things that make us whole
                                  A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                                                             A7M
                                                                                                                                                                              Don't you want to dream? Don't you want to feel
I thought I had you but now I know
                                  Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                                                             Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            В
                                                                                                                                                                               The possibility of it getting real?
That in the end, you let me go
                                                                                                                                                                                                                       A7M
                                                                                                                                                                              We ought to believe
I couldn't wait
                                                                                                                                                                                        Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                               That all's there just for us
I wouldn't rely on fate
                                                                                                                                                                              A7M Dbm
                              A7M
You needed space
                                                                                                                                                                              A7M Dbm B
           Dbm
And I you as my date
                                                                                                                                                                               I woke up like this, I woke up like this
                                     Gbm
And all that lies beneath has got to keep its place, yeah
                                                                                                                                                                               I thought I'd never be the same without your kiss
                                                                                             E B
And what is ahead is there for us to trace
                                                                                                                                                                               I can't live like this, I can't live like this
                                A7M
                                                     Dbm
I've got to be the one who takes you home % \left\{ 1,2,...,n\right\} =\left\{ 1,2,...,n\right\} =
                                                                                                                                                                               I need to get out of this mistake
                             A7M Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                               A7M
We've got to see the things that make us whole
                                                                                                                                                                               Should I hesitate? Should I hesitate?
                                     A7M
                                                                                                                                                                              Dbm
Don't you want to dream? Don't you want to feel
                                                                                                                                                                              Why fall in love with someone who never cares?
                              Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Dbm
The possibility of it getting real?
                                                                                                                                                                              Oh yeah, oh yeah yeah yeah yeah
                              A7M
We ought to believe
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                              I've got to be the one who takes you home
          Dbm
                                   В
That all's there just for us
                                                                                                                                                                                                             A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                              We've got to see the things that make us whole
(Dbm B)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                            A7M
                                                                                                                                                                              Don't you want to dream? Don't you want to feel
                             A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                                              Dbm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            В
                                                                                                                                                                               The possibility of it getting real?
The other day, I was afraid
                                             Dbm
'Cause you didn't stay and I stayed awake
                                                                                                                                                                               We ought to believe
                       A7M
                                                                                                                                                                                       Dbm B
All these thoughts going up my head
                                                                                                                                                                               That all's there just for us
                                                          Dbm
They started messing with the feelings that I had
                                                                                                                                                                               ( A7M Dbm B )
                                                                                                                                                                               ( A7M Dbm B )
                                                                                                                                                                               (A7M Dbm B)
And all that lies beneath has got to keep its place, yeah
                                                                                                                                                                               ( A7M Dbm B )
```

Acordes

