

Finneas - American Cliché

tom:

Intro: Bm Bm Bm

[Primeira Parte]

(Okay)

Too little to do for too long and

Too little of you for my songs

To be anything but lonely

In a couple weeks, you'll own me

Too tired to sleep, good morning

And I'm too wired to heed the warnin'

That there's danger in the summer

The calm before the thunder

[Refrão]

I'm an American cliché

Missin' a girl in a French café

I say, "God damn, you're beautiful"

You blush and duck out of frame

I'm an American cliché

Missin' a girl in a French café

I say, "How'd I get along so long without you"

And you say, "same"

( Bm Bm Bm Bm )

I know, I know, I know

[Refrão]

I'm an American cliché

Missin' a girl in a French café

I say, "God damn, you're beautiful"

You blush and duck out of frame

I'm an American cliché

Missin' a girl in a French café

I say, "How'd I get along so long without you"

And you say, "same"
