Five Finger Death Punch - Bleeding

```
Tom: G
                                                              And You're better off without me
Intro:
                                                                   Cm
                                                              Well I'm so, ugly!
                                                                  Abm
                                                              I'm better off without you
                                                                       Bb
                                                              And You're better off alone!
[Primeira Parte]
                                                              [Refrão]
Cm
I remember when all the games began
                                                                Cm
                                                              The lying
       Abm
Remember every little lie
                                                                Cm
                                                              The bleeding
   Bb
And every last goodbye
                                                                Cm
                                                              The screaming
Cm
Promises you broke, words you choked on
                                                                Ebm
                                                                          Bb
                                                              Was tearing me apart
     Abm
And I never walked away
                                                               Cm
   Bb
                                                              The hatred
It's still a mystery to me
                                                               Cm
                                                              Deceiving
[Ponte]
                                                               Cm
                                                              Disaster
                                                                Ebm Bb
    Cm
Well I'm so, empty!
                                                              It's over now!
   Abm
I'm better off without you
                                                              [Ponte]
         Bb
And You're better off without me
                                                              (Cm Gm)
    Cm
Well you're so, unclean!
                                                                    Abm
                                                              Well as wicked as you are
   Abm
I'm better off without you
                                                                    Bb
         Bb
                                                              You're beautiful to me
And You're better off alone
                                                              (Cm Gm)
[Refrão]
                                                                         Abm
 Cm
                                                              You're the darkest burning star
The lying
                                                                   Bb
                                                              You're my perfect disease!
 Cm
The bleeding
                                                              [Refrão]
 Cm
The screaming
 Ebm Bb
                                                                Cm
Was tearing me apart
                                                              The lying
 Cm
                                                                Cm
The hatred
                                                              The bleeding
Cm
                                                               Cm
                                                              The screaming
Deceiving
                                                                          Bb
                                                                 Ebm
Cm
                                                              Was tearing me apart!
Disaster!
  Ebm Bb
                                                                Cm
It's over now
                                                              The hatred
                                                               Cm
[Segunda Parte]
                                                              Deceiving
                                                               Cm
                                                              Disaster
Cm
Paint the mirrors black to forget you
                                                                 Ebm Bb
                                                              It's over!
Abm
I still picture your face
       Bb
                                                                Cm
And the way you used to taste
                                                              The lying
Cm
                                                                Cm
Roses in a glass dead and wilted
                                                              The bleeding
  Abm
                                                                Cm
To you this all was nothing
                                                              The screaming
   Bb
                                                                 Ebm

    Cm
                                                              Deceiving
Well you're so, filthy!
                                                               Cm
   Abm
                                                              Disaster
I'm better off without you
                                                                 Ebm Bb
