But I can say that my heart led me to make honest choices

Who to go to, who to live with, with whom to share

And I also feel the sting when once again it's hit and miss

And I know all about joy, and maybe more about mourning

Am

But about love about love I don't know a thing

G

So when you asked me what I know about it

My heart will lead me to make honest choices

Who to go to, who to live with, with whom to share
