

Florence and The Machine - Ship To Wreck

```
Tom: C
                                                              Am I losing touch?
                                  Dm
Don't touch the sleeping pills, they mess with my head,
                                                              Did I build this ship to wreck?
Dredging the Great White Sharks, swimming in the bed,
                          Dm
                                                               To wreck, to wreck,
Here comes a Killer Whale, to sing me to sleep,
                                                               Am
              F
                           Dm
                                                               To wreck.
Thrashing the covers off, it has me by its teeth,
                                                              Did I build this ship to wreck?
               Dm
                           Am
And oh my love remind me, what was it that I said?
                                                              Am F Dm Am
               Dm
                          \mathsf{Am}
I can't help but pull the earth around me, to make my bed
              Dm
                                                               And good god, under star disguise we are lost,
                          Am
And oh my love remind me, what was it that I did?
                                                              And into the breach we got tossed,
Did I drink too much?
                                                               And the water's coming in fast!
Am I losing touch?
                                                                              Dm
                                                                                          Am
Did I build this ship to wreck?
                                                              And oh my love remind me, what was it that I said?
                                                                              Dm
   F Dm
                                                               I can't help but pull the earth around me, to make my bed
                                                                            Dm
To wreck, to wreck,
                                                                                     Am
                                                               And oh my love remind me, what was it that I did?
Am
To wreck,
                                                              Did I drink too much?
Did I build this ship to wreck?
                                                              Am I losing touch?
                                                              Did I build this ship to wreck?
What's with the long face? Do you want more?
Thousands of red-eyed mice, scratching at the door,
                           Dm
                                                              To wreck, to wreck,
Don't let the curtain catch you, cos you've been here before,
                                                              Am
                                                               To wreck.
The chair is an island darling, you can't touch the floor,
                                                              Did I build this ship to wreck?
And oh my love remind me, what was it that I said?
                                                                       Dm
                                                              To wreck, to wreck,
               Dm
                          Am
I can't help but pull the earth around me, to make my bed
                                                               Am
                           Am
                                                              To wreck,
And oh my love remind me, what was it that I did?
                                                              Dm
                                                              Did I build this ship to wreck?
```

Acordes

Did I drink too much?

