

Foo Fighters - Subterranean

```
Oh no, oh no, you don't
Intro: Gbm Am Em Gm
                                                           Verso:
Verso:
                                                           Nothing left within, I've been mined
Nothing left within, I've been mined
                                                                               Gm
                                                           Hell and back again, subterranean
                   Gm
Hell and back again, subterranean
                                                           I've been digging in down inside
                   Am
I've been digging in down inside
                 Gm
                                                           I will start again, subterranean
I will start again, subterranean
                                                           Pré-Refrão:
Pré-Refrão:
D7M#
                                                           But the truth is so unkind
But the truth is so unkind
                                                           What do you know, how low the sky
What do you know, how low the sky
            F A
Yet the truth is so unkind
                                                           Refrão:
What do you know, how low the sky
                                                           You might think you owe me
 A A A7M A (2X)
                                                            A7M
                                                           But I know damn well you don't Refrão:
                                                            Em D A
                                                           Oh no, oh no, you don't
                                                           You might think you love me
You might think you know me
                                                            A7M
 A7M
                                                           But I know damn well you don't
But I know damn well you don't Em D A A A Oh no, oh no, you don't
Oh no, oh no, you don't
You might think you owe me
                                                           Bring all your lies leave them deep in the dirt
 A7M
But I know damn well you don't
Em D A
                                                           Oh no, oh no, you don't
Oh no, oh no, you don't
                                                                 G D
                                                           Pull down my eyes lay me deep in the earth
                                                                         Α
                                                           G D A
Oh no, oh no, you don't
Buried my heart
   D
Cannot go this alone
                                                           Verso:
G D
              Am
Oh no, oh no, you don't
                                                           Nothing left within, I've been mined
Poison in the sound
                                                                               Gm
                                                           Hell and back again, subterranean
D Am
God in the stone
                                                                               Αm
G D
                                                           I've been digging in down inside
                \mathsf{Am}
                    A Am
                                                           I will start again, subterranean
```

Acordes

