

Garth Brooks - Why Ain't I Running

I can hear that highway calling

As I watch the sunrise crawling across her shoulder

This is usually goodbye

And yet those words I just can't find here as I hold her

She's like no other woman

That I have ever known before

And it ain't me to see the morning sun

From this side of the door

Why ain't running, why ain't gone

How does she hold me without holding on

In love or a fight, she's stronger than strong

Something's not right in there ain't nothing wrong

It's got me wondering, why ain't running

Why ain't I gone

All those worlds I left behind me

Praying they would never find me and my freedom

But if they stood right here beside me

They would never recognize me for all that she's done

Once happiness was only

Whenever I was on my own

So now why do I feel lonely

Any time that I'm alone

Why ain't running, why ain't gone

How does she hold me without holding on

In love or a fight, she's stronger than strong

Something's not right in there ain't nothing wrong

It's got me wondering, why ain't running

No, they've never built a wall that high

Or made a chain that strong

And God ain't never made a place

I felt like I belong

Why ain't running, why ain't gone

How does she hold me without holding on

In love or a fight, she's stronger than strong

Something's not right in there ain't nothing wrong

It's got me wondering, why ain't running

Why ain't I gone
