                                                                [Chorus]
[Verse 1]
                                                                And I said, well I got a car, she said, there's something at Α2
She was leanin' on a rail in a cotton dress, summer tanned least
                                                                It's a start, I said it's better than nothing
Little perfect mess
                                                                I ain't in no hurry but I'm ready when you are
      Dbm
With a story that could only be anybody's guess
                                                                And she said, where do you think all this is goin', I said,
And I was thinkin' that I probably didn't stand a chance, but there
Α2
                                                                Ain't no way of knowin'
Rolled up my sleeves, walked up and I said
                                                                I really hadn't thought it through that far
                                              Α2
Hey no, I don't know you, but I'd kinda like a shot
                                                                And I can't promise you the moon and stars
She said, I saw you comin' over, I already thought it over and
                                                                But I got a car
Ok, so now what
                                                                 B E 3x
[Chorus]
                                                                [Bridge]
And I said, well I got a car, she said, there's something at
                                                                We got lost in the miles, lost track of the days
                                                                'Til we, finally found a stoppin' place
It's a start, I said it's better than nothing
                                                                When the doctor's said, you know what's on the way?
I ain't in no hurry but I'm ready when you are
                                                                And we found ourselves in a little white house
And she said, where do you think all this is goin', I said,
                                                                One, Sunday morning rain pourin' down
                                                                             Dbm
Ain't no way of knowin'
                                                                She said, I think it's time But all the lines are out
I guess I hadn't thought it through that far
                                                                And her eyes teared up and she said What are we gonna do now?
           F
But I got a car
                                                                [Final chorus]
                                                                And I said, well I got a car She said, there's something
[Verse 2]
So, we let the wheels turn and the windows down, we let You think it'll start? I said it's already runnin' ourselves
                                                                Got your things in the back and I'm ready when you are Go all the way through town
                                                                She said, are you sure it'll get us where we're goin'?
She never said stop and I never asked her why
                                                                I said, if there's one thing I know girl
We drove into the night, when outta nowhere, she said, I'd It's gotten us this far
                                                                      Dbm
                                                                And I don't mean to hurry but I'm ready when you are Anything to never go back there
                                     A2
And I kinda wish this day would never end
                                                                 E A2 Dbm B
She said, I could use a change but I don't even know where to F A2 Dbm B F
