

Glen Hansard - And The Healing Has Begun

Tom: A

riff:

A D E x3

A D E
And will walk down the avenue again

A D E
And will walk down the avenue again when the healing has begun

A D E
And will walk down the avenue in style

A D E
And will walk down the avenue and will smile

A D E
And well say baby ain't it all worthwhile when the healing has begun

A D E
when the healing has begun

A D E x3

A D E (here you mute de A).
I want you to put on your pretty summer dress yeah

A D E
You can wear your Easter bonnet Sunday clothes and all the rest

A D E
And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E

A D E (but here you mute de A... again)
I want you to put on your pretty summer dress

A D E
You can wear your Easter clothes Sunday bonnet and all the rest

A D E
And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E

When the healing has begun

A D E x2

A D E (again the muting thing)
Were gonna make sweet music underneath the stars

A D E
We'll play to the violin and the two guitars

A D E
and will sit down and play for hours and hours... when the healing has begun

A D E
when the healing has begun

A D E x3

A D E
Were gonna stay out all night long

A D E
And then were gonna go out and roam across the field

A D E
Baby you know how it feels when the healing has begun

A D E
when the healing has begun

A D E

A D E (but here you mute de A... again).
I want you to put on your pretty summer dress

A D E
You can wear your Easter clothes Sunday bonnet and all the rest

A D E
And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E x3

And well walk down the avenue again

A D E
And well walk down the avenue again and the healing has begun

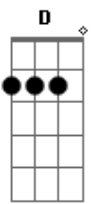

A D E x2

you end on A
