

Glen Hansard - Lucky Man

Tom: G

Intro: C7M Bm7
C7M Bm7
C7M Bm7
Am7 D

Well it's gonna be a lucky man

That gets to take your hand
And play house with you a while

Girl, I was looking for you

I thought you could pull me through
Cause I've been slipping down the other side

And anyone that sees you
Anyone that sees you at all
Anyone that sees you at all
They know, they know

They know, they know, they know
What I should have been told
Just by looking

(G Am7)
(C Bm7 Am7)

Well it's gonna be a lonely time

But I don't mind
You've always been there

When I've called your name
Girl, and when you smile

Wider than a country mile
There's nothing I wouldn't do
To please you baby

And anyone that knows you
Anyone that knows you at all

Anyone that knows you at all
They know, they know

They know, they know, they know

What I should have been told
Just by looking

There's a wild yearning
It builds up inside me while you're around
And the fire is still burning in us
Even now, even now

(G Am7)
(C Bm7 Am7)
(G Am7)
(C Bm7 Am7)

And anyone that sees you
Anyone that sees you at all
Anyone that sees you at all
They know, they know

They know, they know, they know
What I should have known all along
Just by looking

And there's a wild yearning
It builds up inside me while you're around
And the fire's still burning in us
Even now, even now

Give this love somewhere to go
If you don't want it, let me know
Somebody will

Well it's gonna be a lucky man
That gets to take your hand
(C Bm7 Am7)
