

Grace VanderWaal - Darkness Keeps Chasing Me

```
[Refrão]
      [Intro] G Em C
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Em
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Every now and then
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                The darkness tries to chase me
Opening my eyes
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             Em
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                And my legs are getting tired of running
Seems like it gets harder sometimes
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Oh, please don't
Look at the skylight
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Please don't let it get to me
Would you be mad at me if I tried running away to it in the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      Em
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Oh, I don't wanna give up that easily
night?
I tried to fight
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                But the darkness keeps chasing
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                [Ponte]
But I'm not strong enough
I just want you here
But I also want to be alone Em C Am D
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Weather streams down my cheeks
I don't know what I want anymore % \left( 1\right) =\left( 1\right) \left( 1\right)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Look to my eyes
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      D
[Refrão]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                See you're blowing smoke in your ripped jeans
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Don't tell me you fell in
Every now and then
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                The darkness is already seeping through
The darkness tries to chase me
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Oh, can't you see?
                Em
And my legs are getting tired of running
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Fm
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                I will be different
                                              Fm
Oh, please don't
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                I'm not sure if I can do it all alone
Please don't let it get to me
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                God, I want to be different
                        Fm
Oh, I don't wanna give up that easily
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                But I'm not sure if I can do it on my own
But the darkness keeps chasing me, me
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                [Refrão]
(GCEm)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Every now and then
Hiding places remind me of you and {\bf I}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                The darkness tries to chase me
                                Em
I wanna call you
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Em
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                And my legs are getting tired of running
But if I hear your voice
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Oh, please don't
I just might cry
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Please don't let it get to me
                                                                  Em
And I don't even know what the song's about, anymore
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          Em
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Oh, I don't wanna give up that easily $\sf Em \ C \ D$
And I don't know what I want, anymore
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                But the darkness keeps chasing me, me \,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                Em C D
```

Acordes

Me, me, me