

Green Day - You Lied

```
F / Gb F / Gb
Intro: 2x: Ab A Pinocchio has pierced your tong. Your nose is growing into third dimension.
Verso:
                                    Ab / A Refrão:
F / Gb F / Gb
You got a problem you just can't hide. Complusive habits that Well reality is due. What you say just can't be true.
never seem to die.
                                     Ab / A
Ab / A
F / Gb F / Gb
                                                               When your story's stretched and so far fetched. And your
Your breath is stinking up all the air. Your teeth are rotting lacking an excuse.
two blackholes in your head
                                                               (stop) Ab / A
                                                                    You lied.
Refrão:
                                                                          Ab / A
               D
                                              D
                                                                    Ahh you lied!!
Well reality is due. What you say just can't be true.
                                                               ( Ab ) A
                                                               Solo:
When your story's stretched and so far fetched. And your lacking an excuse.
(stop) Ab / A
                                                               Refrão:
    You lied.
                                                                              D Em
                                                               Em
                                                               Well reality is due. What you say just can't be true.
Verso:
F / Gb F / Gb
                                                               When your story's stretched and so far fetched. And your
Your mother allowed you one just white lie. Now she's dead and lacking an excuse.
she left you with a problem.
                                                               (stop) Ab / A
                               Ab / A
                                                                    You lied.
```

Acordes

