

Greta Van Fleet - Anthem

Tom: G

With the news there's something every day
 So many people thinking different ways, you say
 Where is the music?
 A tune to free the soul
 A simple lyric, to unite us all, you know

Your opinion only knows the one thing that you seem to want to have most, and you chose
 To save yourself in your own time you'll have to stay and open up your own, mind

And every glow in the twilight knows
 That the world is only what the world is made of
 Just you and me can agree to disagree
 And the world is only what the world is made of

In all the noise facing every day

The colored world has turned into a grey, you say
 And from the void, the place in which we came
 Can we step back and see we want the same

Your opinion only knows the one thing that you seem to want to have most, and you chose
 To save yourself in your own time you'll have to stay and open up your own, mind

And every glow in the twilight knows
 That the world is only what the world is made of
 Just you and me can agree to disagree
 And the world is only what the world is made of Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa

And every glow in the twilight knows
 That the world is only what the world is made of
 Just you and me can agree to disagree
 And the world is only what the world is made of
