

Hanson - So Lovely

Tom: Ab

(I. Hanson / T. Hanson / Z. Hanson)

[Intro:] Ab Eb7

She owns a shotgun and a .44

And a five pound Chihuahua named El Salvador

She likes to lay under the stars at night

And watch the sky as the planes pass by

You know that skirt's so short your eyes could bleed
 She acts like she's the royal queen of modesty
 She'll keep you guessing cos her eyes deceive
 When you think you got it made she's got the aces up her sleeve

She's so lovely

She'll let you believe what you want to believe

When she loves me

Well, you know she can't do no wrong

Ab Eb7
 When she loves me

You know she wants to buy a limousine
 So she can always look important every time she's seen
 She's got a smile that you can't believe
 And the junk in her trunk, it'll bring you to your knees

Ab Eb7
 She's so lovely

She'll let you believe what you want to believe

When she loves me

Well, you know she can't do no wrong

You know she can't do no wrong

You know she can't do no wrong when she loves me

You know she can't do no wrong

She's so lovely

When she goes out with the girls at night
 She won't be back until the dawn of the morning light
 She quit her job at the sales and loan
 Now she's working for the nation, got a job in immigration
