

Hinder - Without You

```
Tom: G
I just wanna be alone tonight
                                                                       D
I just wanna take a little breather
                                                                     Bm
Cause lately all we do is fight
And every time it cuts me deeper
Cause something's changed
                                                                   G D A
You've been acting so strange
                                                              Without you
And it's taking its toll on me
                                                              Solo:
It's safe to say that I'm ready to let you leave
                                                              G D A
                                                              G D A
Chorus:
Without you, I live it up a little more everyday
Without you, I'm seeing myself so differently
I didn't wanna believe it then
But it all worked out in the end
When I watched you walk away
Well I never thought I'd say
I'm fine
     G D A
Without you
                                                                     Bm
Called you up cause it's been long enough
And you said that you were so much better
We have done a lot of growing up
                                                              I'm fine
                                                                     G D A
We were never meant to be together
                                                              Without you
                                                              Without you
Cause something changed,
                                                              Without you
You were acting so strange
                                                                  G D A
                                                              Without you
And it's taken its toll on me
It's safe to say that I'm ready to let you leave

I just wanna take a little breather.
