I'm looking for a field with a hundred million flowers

I'm looking for a clock that doesn't count the hours

I'm looking for a high that never lets me down

I've been trying to find a treasure buried underground

I'm looking for a stone that's a perfect skipper

I'm looking for a boat that'll take me down this river

I'm looking for a light that will not break 'til dawn

'Til all the drunks and prayers have been carried home
