

Indigo & The Sirens - Moon Baby

Tom: A
Intro: Dbm

Yeah, you ^{Dbm}learned it too fast, you're still so young
 The night makes room for the light and you fall apart
 You wrote all your fears on a sheet made of scars
 Just for them to know, well they don't know

^{Dbm}Moon baby
 She knows this world is mean
 It brought you to your knees
 Your eyes are archaic nights
 And your words burn like tongues of fire
 They all leave too fast, too soon
 But you are still so young
 The moon will be rising
 And you'll sing your song to the stars
 (When it gets dark you sing your song)
 And you'll sing your song to the stars
 (When it gets dark you sing your song to the stars)

^AYou live in a dream
 Where the ^Bskies are clear
 And there ain't no tear
 Only rain on your skin
 On your skin
^{Dbm}Moon baby
 She knows this world is mean
 It brought you to your knees
 Your eyes are archaic nights
 And your words burn like tongues of fire
 They all leave too fast, too soon
 But you are still so young
 The moon will be rising
 And you'll sing your song to the stars
 (When it gets dark you sing your song)
 And you'll sing your song to the stars
 (When it gets dark you sing your song to the stars)
