

Jack Johnson - Subplots

Tom: C
Intro: C A7 F G

C
Well, how many subplots you got runnin' around your mind?
A7
The Gordian knot must be cut through
F
Well, give me a red pen; I will simplify your story
G
Which part of yourself can you afford to lose?
C
If you show me your list, then I will show you mine
A7
Let's kill off a character or two

F
All the light under the sun
G
And all the light above it, too

Is gonna rise and shine
F
And all the light under the sun
G
And all the light above it, too

It don't shine for you

C
Like the joy and the tear in your eye
A7

Like the little star that could

F
Could you remember every mistake that you made?

G
At least all the ones you should (have made)?

C
If you make it your wish, then I will make it mine

A7
Try to make sense of who is who

F
All the light under the sun
G
And all the light above it, too

Is gonna rise and shine
F
And all the light under the sun
G
And all the light above it, too

F G
Still gonna shine on this world

C
Past it too

A7
It won't stop

F
It don't shi-ine just for you

G
Birds don't sing

C
Trees don't lose

A7
Leaves don't change

F
Fa-all just for you

G C
Shi-ine just for you

A7 F
Shi-ine just for you

G C G
Shi-ine just for you

C
And how many subplots you got swimmin' through that mind?

A7
Scream for sympathy or sing the blues

F
Run from the shadows or relax in the shade

G
Which road you gonna choose?

C
We've all got places to be; we've all got things to do

A7
We've all got this moment it's ours to lose

F
And all the light under the sun

G
And all the light above it, too

(Summer don't turn to fall)

F
And all the light under the sun

(It's not just for you)

G
And all the light above it, too

(Summer don't turn to fall)

F
And all the light under the sun

(It's not just for you)

G
And all the light above it, too

(Summer don't turn to fall)

F
And all the light under the sun

(It's not just for you)

G
And all the light above it, too

C
Still gonna shine
