

Jerry Lee Lewis - Sometimes a Memory Ain't Enough

Tom: G

I have your pictures to look at
 And a memory that helps me when I'm blue
 I play those old records that we used to dance to
 But these things can't take the place of you
 I need real live arms to hold me

Warm and tender lips that I can touch yes I do
 I play my game but it's not the same
 Sometimes a memory just ain't enough
 The thoughts of you help me keep my mind together
 And though it doesn't always help it's true
 Remembering darling that one time you really loved me
 It helps to ease the pain of losing you
