

Jerry Lee Lewis - Thirty-Nine And Holding

Tom: G

He's out there somewhere every night
 Where the music's playing loud

He's doing all those fifty's steps
 He's in a 1980 crowd

Dim lights hide the mileage line

The Clairol hides the gray
 And he won't mention anything

To give his old age away

Oh he's thirty-nine and holding
 Holding everything he can

From seventeen to twenty-five
 And acting twenty-three

To prove he's still a man

He's holding to a candle
 And it's a-burning at both ends

He's thirty-nine and holding
 Holding everything he can

You can bet he'll never see
 Thirty-nine again

He should have turned loose long ago
 But still he a hanging it in

He still thinks that he's the man

That he once used to be
 He's thirty-nine and holding
