

Jim Glaser - You're Getting To Me Again

I rise in the morning but I don't shine

Something's heavy on this heart of mine

Another empty day so hard to begin

Look in the mirror and I see a stranger

I feel it coming again and I know the danger

It's plain to see you're getting to me again

Now I spend every waking hour thinking about you

Just can't learn to live my life without you

Ooooo, you're getting to me again

I dream of life with you, but I'm just pretending

I write you letters but I never send them

Ooooo, you're getting to me again

I tell my friends I'm getting over you

It's easy to say but it's so untrue

?Cause now I know our love will never end

But I can't take the way your memory haunts me

I've got to find a way to make you want me

Can't you see you're getting to me again

Now I spend every waking hour thinking about you

Just can't learn to live my life without you

Ooooo, you're getting to me again

I dream of life with you, but I'm just pretending

I write you letters but I never send them

Ooooo, you're getting to me again
