

Joan Shelley - Where I'll Find You

tom: C

I saw you there
 Beside the light post
 Your shoulders square
 Against the night's cold
 I blamed the wind when my legs shook
 But your eyes, that hungry look
 It shot through me
 Didn't you see?

And now I dream
 I dream of you and me
 Out in the fall
 Always the fall
 I see the ground we walked and claimed
 I see the place that holds the weight
 The size of you

Oh what I'd do
 [Refrão]
 Tell me where to land, I'll aim this Ship onto your sand
 Where I'll find you
 Tie me to the banks and hold me
 Safe from all the storms that form behind me
 Out on the blank sea

And take my hands
 My idle time
 Push them to plant
 The forms to find
 That it was all we had to do
 Reach the highest limb for fruit
 That was for you
 Only for you
