Johnny Cash - Tennessee Stud

we got in a fight over Tennessee.
                                                                    Pulled our guns and he fell with a thud,
    Back about eighteen and twenty-five
                                                                    and I rode away on a Tennessee Stud.
    I left Tennessee very much alive.
    I never would've made it through the Arkansas mud,
                                                                The Tennessee Stud was long and lean,
    if I hadn't been riding on the Tennessee Stud.
                                                                the color of the sun and his eyes were green.
                                                                He had the nerve and he had the blood,
    Had some trouble with my sweetheart's pa,
    one of her brothers was a bad outlaw.
                                                                there never was a horse like the Tennessee Stud.
    I wrote a letter to my Uncle Fudd,
                                                                    I rode right back across Arkansas,
    and I rode away on the Tennessee Stud.
                                                                    I whupped her brother and I whupped her pa.
                                                                    I found that girl with the golden hair,
The Tennessee Stud was long and lean,
                                                                    she was riding on a Tennessee Mare.
the color of the sun and his eyes were green.
                                                                    Pretty little baby on the cabin floor,
He had the nerve and he had the blood,
                                                                    little horse colt playing round the door.
there never was a horse like the Tennessee Stud.
                                                                    I love the girl with the golden hair,
                                                                    and the Tennessee Stud loves the Tennessee Mare.
    Drifted on down into no man's land,
                                                                The Tennessee Stud was long and lean,
    across the river called the Rio Grande.
    Raced my horse with the Spaniard's foe,
                                                                the color of the sun and his eyes were green.
    til' I got me a skin full of silver and gold.
                                                                He had the nerve and he had the blood,
    Me and the gambler, we couldn't agree,
                                                                there never was a horse like the Tennessee Stud.
