

Jordan Feliz - Somebody Loves You

```
Dbm
                                                                                                                                    He just says you're worth it
                                                          tom:
                                                                  [Intro] Gbm E Dbm D
                Gbm E Dbm D
                                                                                                                                     [Pré-Refrão]
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                                                                                     When it seems like
               Gbm E
Feeling insecure
                                                                                                                                     You've been cast aside
               Dbm
Like it just might shatter
                                                                                                                                     Don't it feel so
               Gbm E
                                                                                                                                                       D
And you're still not sure
                                                                                                                                     Good to realize
    Dbm D
                                                                                                                                     [Refrão]
If you really matter
                                                                                                                                                   Gbm E
              Gbm E
                                                                                                                                                                               Dbm
All the wounding words
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you more than you know
                                                                                                                                     Gbm E Dbm D
Loved you enough to lay His life down
Gbm E Dbm
              Dbm D
That you hear so often
              Gbm E
                                                                                                                                    Somebody loves you and He's not letting go
Gbm E A D
Everything changes when you find out
But the silence hurts
     Dbm D
'Cause you feel forgotten
                                                                                                                                               Gbm E Dbm D
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                                                                                     Gbm E Dbm D
Somebody loves, loves, loves
                   Α
When the world won't
                                                                                                                                                          Gbm E Dbm D
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you
                 D
Give your heart a home
                                                                                                                                      Gbm E A D
                   Dbm
You may be lonely
                                                                                                                                     [Ponte]
But you're not alone
                                                                                                                                     Let it be the air your heart can breathe
[Refrão]
                                                                                                                                                 Dbm E
                                                                                                                                     Let it be the truth your soul believes
               Gbm E Dbm
                                                                                                                                                   Α
Let it wash every lie away
                                                                                                                                                    Dbm
Loved you enough to lay His life down
Gbm E Dbm
                                                                                                                                     Let His scars tell you everyday
                                                                                                                                                       Gbm E Dbm D
Somebody loves you and He's not letting go
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you
                                                                                                                                     Gbm E Dbm D
Loves, loves, loves
Gbm E A D
Everything changes when you find out
  Gbm E Dbm D
Somebody loves you
                                                                                                                                     [Refrão 2]
                                              Dbm D
   Gbm E
                                                                                                                                                       Gbm E
Loves you, loves you, loves you
                                                                                                                                                                                            Dbm
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you and He's not letting go \frac{1}{2} \frac
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                                                                                     Everything changes when you find out
               Gbm E
                                                                                                                                                  Gbm E Dbm
What if God himself
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you
                                                                                                                                                    D
                Dbm
Wouldn't live without you
                                                                                                                                     And somebody
                                                                                                                                     Gbm E Dbm
                 Gbm E
Heaven knows you well
                                                                                                                                     Loves, loves, loves
   Dbm D
                                                                                                                                       D Gbm E Dbm D
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you

Gbm E A D
 'Cause He talks about you
           Gbm F
                                                                                                                                     And He's not letting go
Doesn't leave your side
                Dbm D
                                                                                                                                                     Gbm E Dbm D
When you're less than perfect
                                                                                                                                     Somebody loves you
               Gbm
                              E
When you ask Him why
                                                                                                                                     [Final] Gbm E Dbm D
```

Acordes

