

Joshua Bassett - She Said He Said She Said

```
If you're saying "Sorry"
                            tom:
Intro: Bm
            G
                                                                You can save it
  She said, he said, she said
                                                                [Pré-Refrão]
She said, he said, she said
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                 Oh, and when you dance with the devil
                                                                The devil gonna dance with you
I saw you in the back of the room
                                                                 Oh, and when you play with fire
Takin' shots with your friends again
                                                                The flames gonna burn you, too
You talk shit, like you always do
                                                                [Refrão]
I guess high school never ends
You sure got a lot to say
                                                                Starting rumors
When you're talkin' on my name
                                                                It's nothing new, yeah
 You sure got a lot to say
                                                                We're on this shit again
But did you tell them everything?
                                                                She said, he said, she said (She said)
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                Just can't get over (Just can't get over)
                                                                I let you go, yeah (I let you go, yeah)
Oh, and when you dance with the devil
                                                                Let's put this shit to bed
The devil gonna dance with you
                                                                She said, he said, she said (She said)
Oh, and when you play with fire
The flames gonna burn you, too
                                                                 She said, he said, she said
[Refrão]
                                                                She said, he said, she said
                                                                 She said, he said, she said (She said)
Starting rumors
                                                                She said, he said, she said (She said)
It's nothing new, yeah
                                                                   0h-hhhh
We're on this shit again
She said, he said, she said
                                                                She said, he said, she said
Just can't g?t over
                                                                [Ponte]
I let you go, yeah
                                                                 Burn your bridge, talk your shit
L?t's put this shit to bed
                                                                I've been growin' thicker skin
She said, he said, she said
                                                                 Forgiveness? Ask again
 She said, he said, she said (0h)
                                                                 Patience only runs so thin
She said, he said, she said
                                                                [Refrão]
 She said, he said, she said
                                                                Starting rumors
She said, he said, she said
                                                                It's nothing new, yeah
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                We're on this shit again
Night ends and you call me again
                                                                She said, he said, she said (She said)
Say you didn't mean what you said
                                                                Just can't get over (Can't get over)
 But drunk talks are sober thoughts
                                                                I let you go, yeah (0h)
So don't act so innocent
                                                                Let's put this shit to bed
I can't keep playing games
                                                                She said, he said, she said
```

When your rules are always changing, so

Acordes

